'Family' billiards center pondered for Riverbend

■ West Sac planning commission will listen to pros & cons on June 6

By Steve Marschke

A former local billiards club operator has proposed a new "family billiards center" for a location at West Sacramento's Riverbend Shopping Center.

The billiards center includes plans for 12 billiards tables, a number of video games, and a snack bar which would serve beer and wine in addition to soft drinks and food items. Jose Ramon Sandoval, who operated a previous billiards business on 3rd St. in West Sacramento before it closed in 1984, hopes to locate the new business at 908 Sacramento Ave. -- the site of the former local branch of the Yolo County Municipal Court.

The court has pulled out of the site, and out of West Sacramento, following consolidation of its municipal and superior branches.

"We've indicated our concerns over the proposal," said Steve Rikala, a planner for the city of West Sacramento. "and we've asked what kind of a management plan they will have."

He said his office is preparing a recommendation on the application for a new billiards center. The applicants will go before the West Sacramento Planning Commission on June 6 to seek a conditional use permit.

Lt. Dave Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Department said his department, too, is preparing a report on the proposal and will present its viewpoints on the project from a law enforcement angle.

Both Rikala and Farmer said that owner Sandoval has been very cooperative, but that the proposal will receive scrutiny.

The former billiards site on 3rd St. (now vacant) was part of a small strip mall which had frequent trouble with narcotics use and related problems. But neither Farmer nor Rikala would state that the billiards facility was the cause of those problems.

Three arrested after automatic gunfire reported in county

Three men were arrested for possessing illegal weapons -- including a machine gun and a handgun with a silencer -- after Yolo County Sheriff's Deputies were called to the sound of gunfire near Cache Creek in western Yolo County on May 19.

The call came at about 1:20 p.m.

Deputies found seven male suspects near County Road 93, walking to the site after finding it inaccessible by patrol car.

They found three of the suspects to be in direct possession of the firearms, which also included illegal assault rifles and automatic weapons.

The guns were confiscated and three men were arrested without incident.

Booked at the Monroe Detention Center in Woodland were Thomas J. Curran, 27, of Woodland; David Lane Garske, 25, of Woodland; and Paul Rumsey Hartell of North Highlands.

The sheriff's department credited deputies Broussard, Oldham and Doran with resolving the situation peacefully.

Groundbreaking —

Although preliminary site work has been going on for several weeks, city officials hosted an official "groundbreaking" ceremony for the new Money Store headquarters at Raley's Landing Monday afternoon.

The Money Store, a finance company, plans to build a 330,000 square foot facility at the site just north of the Tower Bridge in West Sacramento.

In comments at the ceremony, Mayor Greg Potnick said the event was a "momentous occasion" and a "major milestone for West Sacramento."

"It is difficult to contain our excitement and pride for the newest member of our business community," said

Local groups honored by Yolo County for service to area's young people

On May 6, the Yolo County Youth Services Task Force announced awards for 32 local programs serving Yolo County youth.

City councils, school districts, civic and youth organizations, as well as individuals, were invited to nominate programs that develop youth as contributing members of the community, following a state-wide forum on youth co-sponsored by the Yolo County Board of Supervisors and the Yolo County Services Task Force.

Plaques recognizing outstanding achievement were awarded to 11 programs and certificates of appreciation presented to 21 additional programs Monday evening, May 6, in the Conference Center of the Yolo County Superintendent of Schools. Former Woodland Mayor Gary Sandy discussed ways local communities can nurture youth, and representatives of Davis, Esparto, West Sacramento, Winters, and Woodland and reported on youth programs in their respective cities.

Local award recipients include the following:

Delta High School Peer Counseling Program, sponsored by Delta High School Counseling;

Adopt a Grandparent, sponsored by the City of West Sacramento Parks/Community Services;

West Side School Student Projects, sponsored by Yolo County Superintendent of Schools.

In addition, the West Sacramento Youth Commission and the Friday Night Live/Club Live program in West Sacramento were both nominated for a "Yolo County 1996 Resiliency Honor Roll" award and received a certificate of appreciation for honorable mention.

3 tons of food gathered by local postal workers

By Steve Marschke

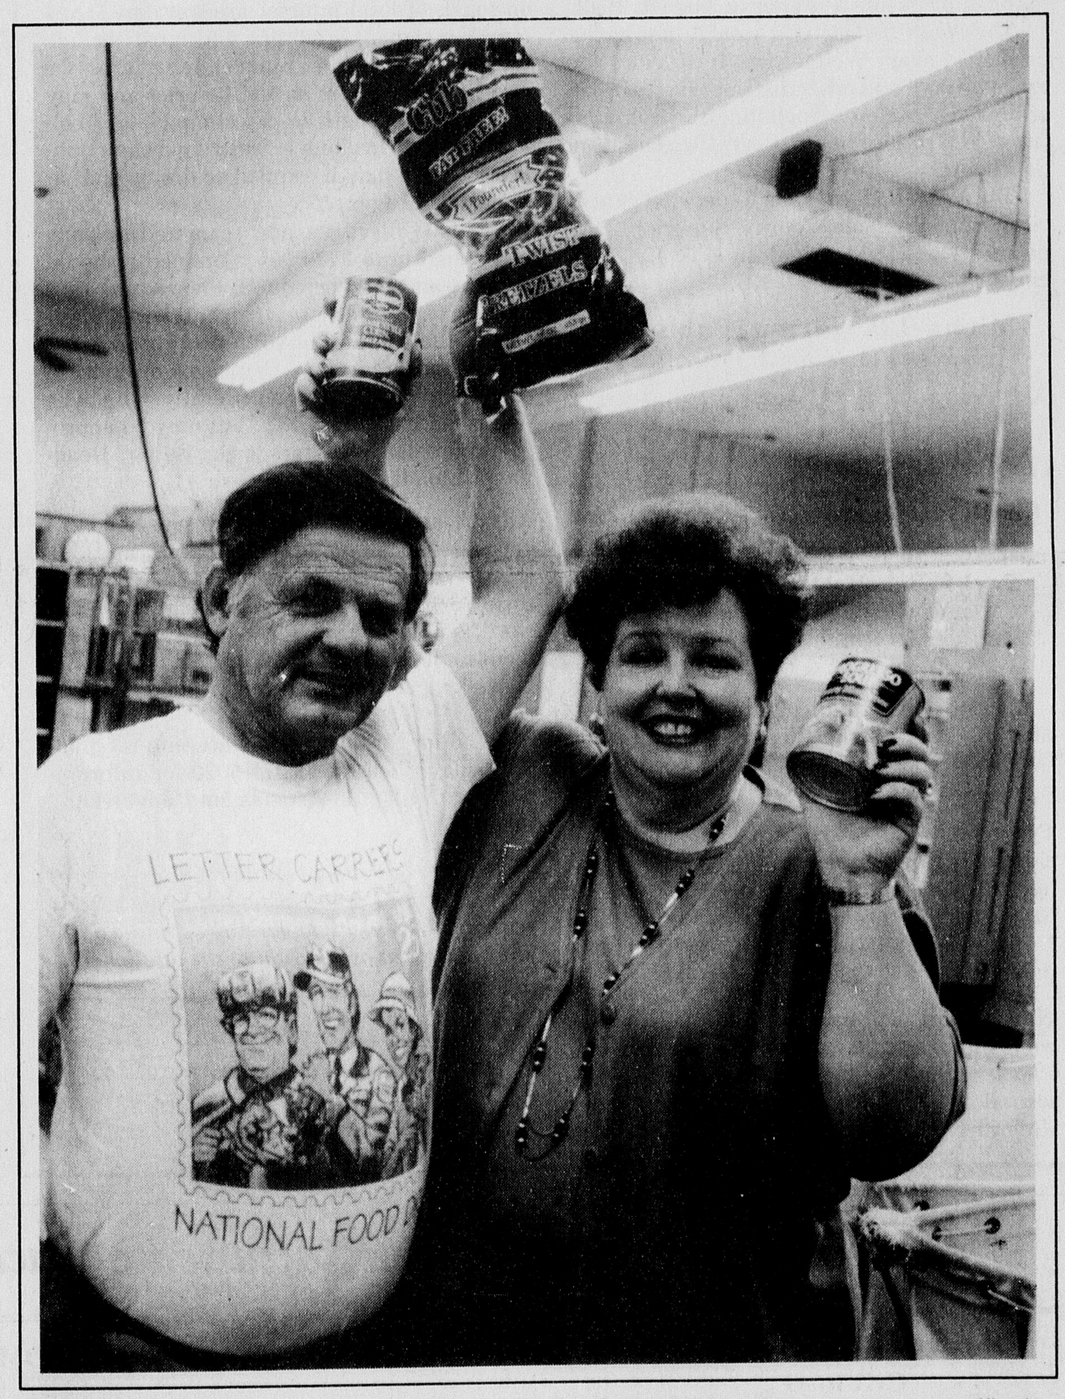

Local mail carriers helped collect over three tons of canned goods and other nonperishable foods from generous West Sacramento residents responding to their annual food drive for the needy on May 11.

"It turned out great," said Jean Sawitzky, a finance clerk at the Merkley Ave. post office who helped organize the West Sacramento food drive. "We had 6,000 pounds of food collected in West Sacramento that went to the Holy Cross food basket and two other food programs."

The food drive took place on a Saturday, with letter carriers agreeing to pick up any food their customers left with their outgoing mail. The post office also allowed its customers to drop off food items in bins at the office itself.

As the city's letter carriers collected food from house to house and business to business during their rounds, co-organizer Marlon Coulombe (himself a mail carrier currently assigned to the city's West Capitol-area route) drove around town picking up the goods batch by batch from the carriers.

"The carriers brought it in," explained Sawitzky.

Marlon Coulombe and Jean Sawitzky, co-organizers of the West Sacramento post office's food drive effort, celebrate their colleagues' success in gathering food for the needy

"Marlon was the 'rover.' The food closets provided about 20 volunteers to sort it. They put it into piles of beans and vegetables and fruits and so on, and then divided it for each food closet."

The event was part of the "National Letter Carriers Food Drive," which takes place across the nation annually.

But more than just the letter carriers help out, said Sawitzky.

Other postal employees, including office workers, also volunteered their efforts to make the food drive a success.

City allowed to save money on bidding

From K. Maurice Johannessen
Senator, Fourth District

A bill by State Senator K. Maurice Johannessen (R-Fourth District) to allow the City of West Sacramento to enter into design/build contracts passed the Senate Local Government Committee yesterday on a 6-0 vote.

Joe Goeden, City Manager of the City of West Sacramento, was in the Capitol to support of the bill.

Senate Bill 1914 was introduced at the request of city officials to enable them to use the alternative bidding process. The design/build alternative allows for a single contract for designing, engineering and constructing a public works project.

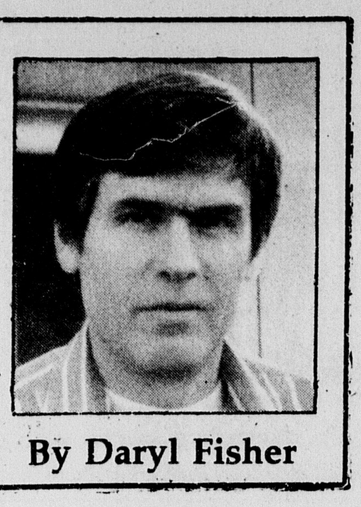

Sen. Maurice Johannessen (R-Red Bluff) leans over the desk at a legislative hearing, flanked by West Sacramento's city manager, Joe Goeden, to his left, and city council member Wes Beers, to his right.

In 1995, the Legislature authorized the counties of Alameda, Sacramento, Santa Clara, Solano and Tulare to solicit design/build contracts for projects under $50 million.

"Allowing West Sacramento to solicit comprehensive bids for all phases of a construction project should streamline the process and save money," said Johannessen.

You don't want to finish last in a marshmallow race

Editor's note: this column is a little more, well, vulgar than most of Daryl's topics. Sensitive readers may wish to move on. . .

One of my oldest friends and a long-time resident of West Sacramento recently took me aside and said, "Daryl, what's happened to you, man? That column of yours is becoming too damn preachy -- too high-brow. This is West Sac, man. Whatever happened to that great bathroom humor you used to put in there? Are you starting to think you're a real writer or what?"

"Oh, no," I tried to explain, "it's nothing like that. It's just that the News-Ledger is a family paper, and I have to be kinda careful what I say. Steve Marschke, my editor, doesn't want me grossing anyone out anymore."

"I don't know, Daryl," said my friend, slowly shaking his head, "but if you ask me, man, you've sold out. I'm afraid I'm just going to have to stop reading the darn thing."

"But wait," I pleaded, knowing that I couldn't afford to lose yet another reader, "there is this one little story I've always wanted to put in the column. It's pretty gross, though. What if I run it past you to see what you think? If it makes you laugh, maybe I'll get brave and go ahead and use it."

"Okay," said my friend, his facial expression leaving no doubt that he was already convinced that my best columns were behind me, "go ahead. I'm listening."

"Well," I began, "now this story goes all the way back to my college days, when I was pledging Phi Beta Chi, which was an off-campus fraternity at Sacramento City College. Anyway, one of the things that all us pledges had to do during Hell Weekend was run in the marshmallow race."

"Marshmallow race?" asked my friend. "What in the world is a marshmallow race?"

"Well," I continued, "on the final day of Hell Weekend, all the pledges -- there were about twelve of us -- were required to go out into this huge backyard at the fraternity house and stand next to each other. Then one of the brothers walked over to us, handed us each one of those big jumbo marshmallows, and ordered us to put it down in front of our feet. Then the president of the fraternity -- I forget his name now -- strolled out into the middle of the yard and began hollering at us. `Okay, pledges,' he yelled, `now listen up! I want each one of you to straddle your marshmallow. And when you're done doing that, I want you to drop your pants -- and your underwear, too!'"

"You had to take off your pants?" asked my suddenly interested friend.

"And my shorts, too."

"You're kidding, man? Wasn't everybody embarrassed?"

"Well," I said, "some more than others. Plus it was a pretty cold night."

"Then what happened?"

"Well," I said, "another couple of brothers held up this long rope at the other end of the yard and yelled out that it was the finish line."

"And you're still standing there nude, straddling a stupid marshmallow?"

"Right," I said. "And then the president began explaining the rules of the race."

"Which were?"

"Well, he told us that he was going to say `Get ready, get set, go!' and when he said go, we were all supposed to squat down, pick up our marshmallow between the cheeks of our butt, and waddle off towards the finish line. And anyone who dropped their marshmallow during the race had to come all the way back to the starting line and start over again."

"I don't believe you, man," said my friend, smiling.

"But it's true," I assured him. "And when he screamed `Go!' we took off waddling for all we were worth towards the finish line, except for this one poor guy, who couldn't seem to pick up his marshmallow. Then another couple of guys dropped theirs and they had to start all over again. Anyway, the three of them finally got out on the course and began fighting it out for last place. To this day, I've never in my life seen three guys try so hard not to finish last at something. And it turned out to be a photo finish, too."

"But why did they care one way or the other who finished last?"

"Well," I explained, "now you see, that's the gross part of the story -- and the real reason I've never used it in the column before."

"But what could be more gross than a dozen nude guys running around in a backyard with marshmallows in their butts?" asked my slightly confused friend.

"Well," I said, "I'm afraid the race had one more rule."

"Which was?"

"That the guy who lost the race -- the poor soul who finished last -- well, he had to eat all twelve of the marshmallows."

"You're right," finally said my laughing friend, "that story is definitely too gross to be putting in the newspaper."

Food & fun at church bazaar

Save June 8 for the annual bazaar at Trinity Presbyterian Church, 1900 Park Blvd., from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m. The quilters have stitched another beautiful queen-size quilt to be raffled. There will be the usual assortment of household items, baked goods, clothing for adults and children, books, plants, and chili from Whitey's. A dunking tank and games for the children will also make for part of the fun. The proceeds help fund the youth camper-ship program.

Portuguese community celebrates heritage with festival on June 2

On Sunday, June 2, the local Portuguese community will celebrate it's annual Portuguese Festa, held every year on Trinity Sunday, since 1893. The festival will commence with a colorful parade, featuring a marching band, fire engines, decorative floats, and several Portuguese queens representing many Northern California counties. The procession will end at St. Joseph's church for an 11 a.m. mass, immediately followed by the crowning of the 1996 junior and senior queens.

The parade begins at the Portuguese Hall, located at 54113 South River Road (just across the river from the town of Freeport) and will continue one mile south, to St. Joseph's Church, where mass will be said in both English and Portuguese by Monsignor Fagundes, Father Dan Madigan and Bishop Weigand. Following the crowning of the queens, the procession will then march back to the hall, where the traditional Portuguese meal of sopas and carne will be served.

The public is invited to attend the free event which will also include refreshments, games for the kids, Bingo and an afternoon auction featuring hand-made goods by the local Portuguese community.

Portuguese immigrants were drawn to the Sacramento Valley because of its fertile soil and promise of economic opportunity. By the 1880 Census, this area had the densest Portuguese population in the entire western United States. But they didn't leave behind their rich cultural heritage. More than a century later, descendants of these early Sacramento pioneers still celebrate the Holy Spirit Festival, which dates back to 13th century Portugal.

For more information about the Festa, please call Joe Souza, Portuguese Council No. 3 secretary, at 925-2327.

The NBA draft lottery was won by the Philadelphia 76ers during the half-time show of the Bulls vs. Magic game last Sunday. The 76ers will select first, followed by the expansion teams Toronto and Vancouver. The Sacramento Kings will pick at number 14 in the first round and 37th and 41st in the second round. The Kings will be shopping a trade involving one of their forwards. The Kings need another shooting guard and big center. Look for the Kings to package a player or two and throw in a draft pick for a trade of a top veteran player like Phoenix's Kevin Johnson.

Michael Jordan won the NBA's MVP award by a landslide! Boy! That was a big surprise!

Did you know that Jordan makes about $600,000 more than Kings backup guard Bobby Hurley!! That's right, Michael earns a salary around $4 million a year. He becomes a free agent at the end of the season and he wants a raise. The Knicks' Patrick Ewing is the NBA's highest paid player at $18.7 million per year, and the Magic's Shaquille O'Neil, a free agent, may sign for $20 million a year. What do you think Michael Jordan is worth? Tune in around August, when the market value of free agents is established.

The Bulls put a terrible 38-point beating on the Orlando Magic in the opening game of the Eastern Conference finals. Magic forward Horace Grant was injured in the game and is listed as day-to-day. That's bad news for Shaq & Co. The Bulls are out to prove a point and will turn it up a notch on the shocked Orlando squad.

In the Western Conference, the Seattle Sonics lead Utah in the best of seven series, two games to none. The Jazz will head home for two games. The series continues in Utah on Friday and Sunday. The Jazz were blown out of the first game and should have won on Monday, but a last-second turnover cost them a 91 to 87 loss in Seattle.

The Oakland A's (20-22) continue to lose, but the good news is that they have the best defense in baseball. The A's .9858 fielding percentage was the best in baseball entering Monday night, slightly ahead of the Chicago Cubs' (.9856).

The Giants (23-20) are playing a little better, but their pitching is still a major problem. Their starters are getting hammered but they have been outscoring their opponents. It's called winning ugly!!

The CISL Indoor Soccer League starts up again with three pre-season games this week. The Sacramento Knights host at the Arco Arena, the Portland Pride on Wednesday and the San Diego Sockers, Thursday at 7 p.m. Admission is $5 and parking is free for all pre-season games. The season opener is June 14 in Monterrey, Mexico, and their first home game is June 26 against Anaheim.

RC tennis: a season to remember

River City High School juniors Meuy Saechao and Bethany Monroe are the 1996 Golden Empire League Girls Doubles Champions. The pair improved their '96 season record to 23-0 last week at the G.E.L. Tennis Tournament cruising to the title with very little challenge from any of the 13 other teams (each G.E.L. school sends two entries in every event) in the tourney held at Lindhurst High School. As a reward for their season-long excellence, the Raider duo was seeded first and received a first round bye. Three lopsided wins later, they were champions.

In the quarterfinal, they downed Martin and Clark of Golden Sierra 6-2, 6-0. The semi's saw the number four seeded team of Picchi and Finley from Bear River fall 6-1, 6-0 and Bruin teammates Grant and Berthe offered little resistance in a 6-1, 6-1 final. Monroe and Saechao are the first RCHS girls doubles champs since Kim Jones and Kristin Prewitt in 1988.

Other outstanding Raider results from the two-day tourney included second place finishes by the boys doubles team of Ty Fisher and Ahmad Fazel and by Mirthala Santizo in girls singles. Santizo became the first Raider singles player, male or female, to reach the Sac-Joaquin Section Division III Tournament since current Raider coach Dave Brooks way back in 1983. These three players, along with Monroe and Saechao, qualified for the Section Tournament which includes the first and second place finishers from six area leagues. It was held last week in Stockton. The mixed doubles team of Peter Santizo and Khonthavy Phouanglasy took third place at Lindhurst and went to Stockton as alternates.

Results from the three days of tennis are as follows:

OPINION

News-Ledger Editorial

Though they may have little, they share

Do poorer people tend to be more generous?

It seems often that they are, generally. Organizers of the annual postal workers' food drive noticed that the poorer areas of West Sacramento held true to this tradition, giving at least as much per household as their higher income neighbors in the middle class areas.

This has often been remarked elsewhere. If you are down, you are more likely to be fed by someone close to poverty than by someone wealthy; the doors of a lower class household are more quickly to be opened to you if you need a place to stay than those of a wealthier stranger.

Cynics say this is because rich people didn't get to be rich by being generous.

But there's more to it than that.

For one thing, people with more money and more possessions are more likely to spend energy worrying about keeping these things, and may be less likely to part with what they have. It should also be remembered that most middle or upper-middle class people are on the same kind of economic treadmill as the poorer class -- they just worry about higher mortgage payments and more expensive car payments and how to save money for their kids to go to a more expensive college.

They still live on a treadmill; it's just set for a "higher speed" then their less fortunate neighbors.

But maybe the main reason poorer people are so ready to give is that they have felt need themselves before, and can sympathize readily with those who are feeling it now. They may remember quite well what it is like to be hungry or to be on the street, and want to help out anyone in similar trouble as they maybe were helped (or wanted help) themselves.

So though they have little, they are often willing to share.

Old Mary

Give "Old Mary" to Vince!!
HAL GJERMANN

Editor's Note: Writer Hal Gjermann is referring to the fire department's antique fire engine named "Old Mary." A pending deal may transfer the vehicle to the West Sacramento Historical Society. Local businessman Vince Frugoli has also offered to take "Old Mary."

Calling the cops

In regards to your letter to the editor (May 15) "Law Unenforcement," I can totally relate to what the author is saying. I myself have many times called the police day/night to complain about hookers, drug dealings among other things.

This is what dispatch will tell you: They will send an officer out there when one is available because they are handling other emergencies. But then in the mean time, I can see two or three squad cars at Togo's chowing on West Capitol.

Also, I would like to point out that when you do call West Capitol, he/she will tell you to hold the culpable until an officer arrives. That is a big joke in West Sacramento. It's like, don't hold your breath.

You would be lucky if an officer shows up within two hours, or not at all, which has happened "a few times." So the message that I am receiving from them is to take the law into your own hands. Even though they don't realize that "we" the taxpayers are paying for services that are not being rendered, but I will be damned if I am going to sacrifice myself to diseases or lawsuits. In my opinion, if they can't do the job, then get somebody in there that can.

Underpass

At the May 15 City Council meeting, public was told that City sent to CalTrans a signed agreement and City's share of the cost of repairing the "Welcome Grove underpass" ($504.00). That ball is now in CalTrans' court.

On a "much bigger issue," even tho the bids have gone out for the Industrial Bridge and Ordinance 86-4 (Port/City, RE: Seaway Int'l Trade Center Project) "had its first reading/public hearing completed," Councilman Beers expressed concern that impasse over this item could delay bridge "until Port is ready;" i.e., Port can hold City hostage/delay bridge construction (until Port gets something else from City)...indefinitely (?) So no doubt bids will be received "subject to finalization of 96-4, etc. Considering the many millions of dollars involved and the critical land-use decisions, this is perhaps the best example of why public deserves fuller disclosure of monetary and other important factors.

Port Manager John Sulpizio described the agreement (as being) "like a marriage," in an apparently joking way. If it is "subject to divorce" at any time by either party, Mr. Sulpizio appears to be demanding "unlimited financial life" of the Port in exchange for relinquishing some land for the bridge.

City should draft an alternative bridge plan for Southport: One that would go across the Sacramento River to later tie in with (say) Fruitridge Road or 47th Avenue, when Sacramento drops their opposition to another bridge. Even if we could not go straight across the river, such a partial bridge would still be better than "an Industrial Bridge in limbo"...it would sure serve Southport much better. But since Southport will still need new sewage treatment capacity to match new development and Sacramento's Elk Grove sewer district is proposing to charge much more than what our City staff believes is fair, once again we have only one "Rx" at our disposal: Locate a Southport sewage treatment plant so that fumes from southwesterly winds "raise a stink" with some of the "most affluent" Sacramentans...bridging the gap, anyone?

If this last proposal were in place, the Port's management could not "hold us hostage" on the new bridge and federal funding for the "port's bridge" -- some $8 million -- should be reallocated accordingly.

Port's Mr. Sulpizio appears to have forgotten a major issue: If another bridge for Southport occurs, Port's surrounding investment property will not increase in value to the degree an Industrial Bridge would cause. Likewise to Mr. Frank Ramos and his Southport Industrial Park acreage. Maybe Frank can teach John something about profits from rezoned real estate and the importance of access to same.

Construction Begins On James McKnight Police Facility

On Wednesday, May 15, 1996, Ginno Construction began a $1.4 million construction project that will result in a new West Sacramento Police Facility at 500 Jefferson Boulevard. Named after a West Sacramento police officer who was killed in the line of duty in June 1990, the James H. McKnight Facility is scheduled for completion in mid-October.

The new building will allow the police department to centralize its operations which are now spread among three separate buildings, including the crowded and outdated facility at 305 Third Street.

The beginning of construction coincides with Police Officer's Memorial Week and Law Enforcement Appreciation Week, both events that honor law enforcement representatives.

The 50-year-old Third Street facility has been the police department headquarters since July of 1987, when the City first incorporated. Even at that time, the building was barely able to accommodate the needs of the department. The new site, across from the newly completed Salud Clinic, should accommodate the department for the next 10 years, and will allow the department to streamline day-to-day operations and internal communications.

"We have been operating in overcrowded conditions in an outdated facility for years. This new facility is something that we have been looking forward to for some time. We will now be able to operate more efficiently and have some room to grow," said Larry Gore, West Sacramento Police Chief.

Looking at a sign design proposed for the new Police Facility are (left to right) Margo Foster, widow of Siskiyou County Deputy Rodney A. Foster who was killed in the line of duty; Gayle Torres, widow of Officer James H. McKnight; Heidi McKnight Zimmerman, Ms. Torres' daughter; Police Chief Larry K. Gore, and Captain Thomas G. Hoffman. Also on hand were West Sacramento Mayor Pro Tem Bill Kristoff, Mayor Greg R. Potnick, Council members Wes Beers and Cindy Tuttle, and Lieutenant Bruce Muramoto.

Potnick. "We are delighted that this fast-growing, dynamic company has chosen West Sacramento for their new corporate headquarters."

Potnick also singled out the late Tom Raley, who had envisioned urban development of the riverfront property, and McCuen Properties, the developer now working on Raley's Landing, for making the Money Store development possible.

"This ten-story, limestone-clad office tower will be the tallest and most elegant building on this side of the river," said Potnick. "The landmark building will become uniquely identified with the City of West Sacramento, just as the TransAmerica building is with the city of San Francisco."

DIGGING IN are City Council member Wes Beers; Marc Turtletaub, C.E.O. of The Money Store; Jim Teel and Joyce Raley Teel of the Raley's Landing ownership group; Mayor Greg Potnick; and city council members Cindy Tuttle and Bill Kristoff.

The headquarters will become the city's largest employer -- with 2,000 employees -- upon completion.

Locals honored for health service work

From the Yolo County Health Council

Three Yolo County residents were honored on Thursday, May 9, for their distinguished service on behalf of access to quality health care. Mr. William Spiller and Mrs. Juanita Spiller of West Sacramento were the 1996 recipients of the Ada Merhoff Award for the volunteer activist of the year and Dr. Michael Gass of Davis received the John Jones Award for the healthcare professional of the year. For Mr. Spiller, the award was made posthumously.

"These awards recognize the dedicated individuals who work tirelessly to patch the increasingly wide holes in the healthcare safety net," according to Christopher Cabaldon, president of the Yolo County Health Council.

County Supervisor Mike McGowan of West Sacramento, who presented the Ada Merhoff award, praised the Spillers as "champions of the Salud Clinic and the disadvantaged people served by the clinic." Both husband and wife have been active members of the board since 1982, working most recently to secure support for the clinic's new facility at Triangle Court.

Dr. Gass is the volunteer medical director for general medicine at the CommuniCare clinic in Davis, and also provides dermatology services for indigent patients at the county's Peterson Clinic in Woodland. He was nominated for the John Jones Award by staff and patients of CommuniCare, who called him "truly committed to provided quality health care to our uninsured, low-income clients."

The Ada Merhoff and John Jones Awards are sponsored annually by the Yolo County Healthcare Access Coalition, the Yolo County Medical Society, and the Health Council.

TO RESIDENTS AND PAST RESIDENTS OF THE VACATION INN:
IF YOU LIVED AT THE VACATION INN, 1525 MERKLEY AVENUE, WEST SACRAMENTO, AT ANY TIME SINCE JANUARY 25, 1990, READ THIS NOTICE CAREFULLY. IT MAY AFFECT YOUR RIGHTS.

A hearing about a proposed settlement of the lawsuit, Cline et al v. City of West Sacramento, et al, No. 68742, will be held at:

3:00 p.m., June 28, 1996
Department 3 (Judge Steven Mock)
Yolo County Superior Court,
725 Court Street, Woodland, CA 95695
The court will decide if the proposed settlement of this case is fair.

BACKGROUND OF THE CASE

Sandra J. Cline, Jon Deloach and Terri Campagna brought this lawsuit against the City of West Sacramento and its Redevelopment Agency over the Agency's purchase of the Vacation Inn, 1525 Merkely Avenue, West Sacramento, California. Defendants deny that they broke any law. On October 21, 1992, the Court certified part of this action as a class action. Class members include:

All persons who reside or will reside at the Vacation Inn during the pendency of this action or who resided there at any time since January 25, 1990, including persons who stayed at the Vacation Inn for periods of no less than one day or night or greater.

All parties now propose to settle this case.

SETTLEMENT

The proposed settlement would require the Redevelopment Agency to:

1. Pay relocation benefits, including rent subsidies, to the highest ranking 95 families and persons who can be located from the a list of people who lived at the Vacation Inn since January 25, 1990. To find out if your name is on the list of people who may be part of the settlement, call the individuals listed at the bottom of this notice;
2. Build 80 units of affordable housing for seniors;
3. Build 60 units of affordable housing for families and single individuals;
4. Give first priority for the new affordable housing to the highest ranking 140 families and persons who can be located from the list of people who lived at the Vacation Inn since January 25, 1990;
5. Take certain other actions regarding housing and the provision of benefits as listed in the settlement; and
6. Pay attorneys' fees to Plaintiffs' Counsel.

Records show that the people on the list lived at the Vacation Inn some time after January 25, 1990. However, even if you are on the list, you may not be eligible for some or all of the benefits if you:

1. have been convicted of certain felonies;
2. have been arrested for crimes committed at the Vacation Inn;
3. under certain circumstances, left the Vacation Inn after receiving a notice to pay or quit; or
4. have been evicted from certain housing.

Also, you may not get benefits at all if there are other people who can prove they moved out later than you did.

WHAT DO I HAVE TO DO TO FILE A CLAIM?

If you agree with the settlement and you are on the list, and your move out date is correct, you do not need to do anything now. If the settlement is approved by the court, you will receive a notice instructing you how and when to make a claim.

WHAT IF I WANT TO ADD MY NAME TO THE LIST, CHANGE MY MOVE OUT DATE, OR OBJECT TO THE PROPOSED SETTLEMENT?

If you are not on the list and lived at the Vacation Inn at some time since January 25, 1990, OR if your move out date is incorrect, OR if you want to object to all or part of the proposed settlement, you MUST call or write one of the people listed at the bottom of this notice by 5:00 p.m. June 27, 1996, AND appear at the hearing on June 28, 1996 with proof of when you lived at the Vacation Inn. If you want to add your name to the list and you have proof that you helped pay rent at the Vacation Inn, bring that proof to the hearing as well.

Priority for benefits will be based on the date you moved out of the Vacation Inn, so it is important that you let us know if this information is incorrect.

WHAT IF MY ADDRESS CHANGES?

If you move after receiving this notice or if the address this was sent to is wrong, give your name and correct address to either of the persons listed at the bottom of this notice. This is important so that we know where to send future notices or how to get in touch with you if you get any share of the settlement.

WHAT IF I HAVE MORE QUESTIONS?

The pleadings and all other records in this litigation may be examined and copied any time during regular office hours in the office of the Clerk of Court, 725 Court Street, Woodland, California. Copies of the entire settlement are available from the persons listed at the bottom of this notice.

DO NOT CALL OR WRITE TO THE COURT OTHER THAN TO SUBMIT AN OBJECTION TO THE PROPOSED SETTLEMENT OR TO LOOK AT THE FILE.

Free festival for kids in Sacramento

The Sacramento Children's Festival will line the "K" Street Mall and the Downtown Plaza with creativity, education and fun for families and children on Saturday, June 1, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

In its seventh year, the festival will once again give children and families the opportunity to enjoy a full day of free entertainment and education. As Northern California's premier family event, the festival has traditionally drawn crowds of over 100,000 throughout California.

This year's event is made possible largely through sponsorship support of the Target Stores. As the presenting sponsor of the 1996 Sacramento Children's Festival, Target stores bring several educational activities to this year's festival.

Children will be exposed to unique forms of artistic and cultural expression at 13 "Imagination Stations" located throughout the festival. Station themes include an environmental area highlighting creative design of paper bead jewelry made of recycled materials, puppetry, and drawing activities in Toddler Town as well as the Community Weaving Wall, an evolving tapestry of multi-colored materials woven into a cyclone fence.

"Perhaps the most important aspect of the festival is the positive effects that it has on the children," said Gloria Burt, president of Sacramento Educational Events for Art (SEEART), producers of the Sacramento Children's Festival. "The Sacramento Children's Festival provides the foundation for children to express their creativity in a safe and positive environment."

In addition to celebrating artistic creativity, "Imagination Stations" will also focus on cultural diversity and expression with activities such as the design of African-style masks and oriental fish kites, as well as "The Circle of Life," an area devoted to Native American art.

The day will bring a series of live performances by some of the area's top entertainers. The festival is pleased to welcome Michael Bayard to the Crest Theater. Bayard will perform "Rhythm Magic, an unforgettable interactive percussion demonstration. In the same location, children will have an opportunity to perform in "Fantasy Theater" and express their own creativity.

Festival directors proudly welcome The Fox Kids Club and their most well-known characters, the Tick and Eek the Cat, who will be meeting and greeting children and their families throughout the day, Ronald McDonald will be another special guest as he hosts the "You, Me and Ecology" show, a fun way for children to learn to reduce, reuse and recycle.

Hundreds of local businesses, groups and organizations will support the festival as they bring a number of hands-on art activities for children and families. Community groups from all areas of the performing arts will line K Street with fun and entertainment.

"I am truly thrilled with the activities and performances highlighted at the festival," said Mark LiCalsi, festival director. "Our sponsors and volunteers have done so much to make this an exceptional family event."

Sponsors for this year's event include Target, KTXL Fox 40 & The Fox Kids Club, Raley's and Bel Air, AT&T Wireless Services, KSEG The Eagle, KXOA Arrow 108, KRCX/KSXX Spanish Radio, Downtown Sacramento Partnership, KSFM 102.5 FM, UCD Medical Center, Ronald McDonald House Charities, KRAK/KNCI/KHTK, KQPT The Point 100.5, KSSJ 101.9 and Neighbors.

Memorial day is Friday for county's indigent

Douglas A. Kaplan, Yolo County Public Guardian/Public Administrator and Indigent Burial Officer, announced today that he will hold the 14th annual Memorial Day services for individuals interred under the direction of his office at the Indigent Burial Monument at Woodland Cemetery. The service is open to the families, friends of the deceased, as well as the public.

The ceremony will be held at noon on Friday, May 24, at Woodland Cemetery, which is located at Cross and West Streets in Woodland. This year services will be conducted by Pastor Norm Schnaible of the Woodland American Lutheran Church.

"This is an important occasion," Kaplan said. "It is the only formal ceremony in which many of the one hundred people buried by my office this past year will be remembered."

The original Yolo County Indigent Burial Monument, built with private and public funds raised by Kaplan, was dedicated in 1990 and expanded in 1995. The monument was built from marble taken from the Yolo County Courthouse and Yolo General Hospital when those buildings were remodeled.

All interested persons are encouraged to attend the ceremony. "This is one of those rare opportunities for the community to come together for a brief time to remember those who might otherwise be forgotten," Kaplan said. "I hope that everyone will feel welcome to participate."

BMX bike give-away

A May 8 News-Ledger article reported that Raoul Ortega, 10, was last month's winner of a bike give-away contest at Denny's Restaurant in West Sacramento.

But the article neglected to mention that the BMX bicycles being given away in the contest have been donated by Tiller's Bike Shop, located at 1638 West Capitol Ave. in West Sacramento.

The restaurant plans to continue the promotion indefinitely. Any 12-year old (accompanied by an adult) who visits the store near Enterprise Blvd. can register to win in the "Bike a Month eXtravaganza (BMX)" contest.

No purchase is necessary.
